

Fair Haven SEPAG

(Special Education Advisory Group)

All families have a shared and vested interest in our educational programs, especially families who have a child with an identified learning disability or a different learning style. Parent-led committees offer parents the opportunity to work together to make a difference. The Fair Haven Special Education Parent Advisory Group welcomes ALL parents who are interested in learning more about how to best support their child during their academic career. Parents and Caregivers of students from Sickles and Knollwood are welcome!

Fair Haven SEPAG is a parent organization established to:

- Collaborate with district administration to positively affect policies, practices, and programs for students with IEPs and 504s
- Promote inclusion and acceptance of students with special needs and learning challenges in school and extracurricular activities
- Serve as a resource to parents through meetings, workshops, and social media presence
